Moved by the Ingratitude of the Republican Authorities He Tells the Story of His Crimes to Save it.

Washington Special to Boston Herald.

"It was his right hand that saved the Republican party in 1876," said Senator Kellogg to a correspondent to-day. "The country will remember I was Governor of Louisiana. A day or two after the election, I received a dispatch from Chandler, chairman of the National Republican Committee, stating that all was lost if Louisiana could not be saved. It was this right hand that signed the certificates of election of the Hayes electors. It took every elector, eight of them, in-cluding myself, to give Hayes 185 electoral votes, just enough to elect. Louisiana was saved. I saved it, and the Republicans kept possession of the government. Had Tilden got in he would have publicans kept possession of the government. Had Tilden got in he would have been President yet. I have made many a hard fight for the party. In 1877 I came to the Senate, and had to fight Merrick and the Democratic party for two years. I finally got my seat and it was my vote that saved the Senate to the Republican party, and has saved it since."
